

Pick Decade to Reduce Your Handling Costs

Bulk containers from Decade Products reduce your food handling costs, from field and processing to final distribution.

For agricultural, food processing and retail grocery distribution, Decade Products now offers both solid and modular style containers engineered to reduce costs and increase your profitability.

MACX® bulk containers— engineered for the most demanding applications that require a solid container. Fast becoming the industry standard, they are available with short and long side runners and permit safe stacking up to 10 units high.

New KitBin® shipping and storage containers— the highest return ratio in the industry

Rigorous performance in a modular design, resulting in greater space efficiency and the highest return ratio in the industry—return up to 300 empty containers per truckload! Interchangeable sidewall panels completely detach from the pallet base for easy storage, lower repair/replacement and inventory costs. Patented locking panel design provides greater strength than competitive collapsible designs. Remove one panel, and the KitBin can also be used as a store display.

Both MACX and KitBin containers provide:

- Heavy duty, lightweight HDPE structural foam construction for maximum strength, ease of handling.
- Conformance to USDA/HACCP standards for direct food contact.
- Standard 48" x 40" GMA footprint.

- Smooth surfaces for easy cleaning and product protection.
- Vented and solid wall options. Vented walls assist with hydrocooling and prevent mold and bacteria growth.
